

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

An optical disc having a structure by which the development of cracks near its center hole can be prevented includes a center hole and at least one sheet attached and surrounding the center hole, preventing the generation and development of cracks near the center hole.